CONTRACT LET ON SCHOOL BUILDING

J. F. Wineland, of Portland, Successful Bidder; Work Begins at Once. Building Completed By January 1.

The school board of District No. 1 this week closed negotiations for the construction of the new school house and the plans are now in the hands of the contractors. Work will be rushed with all possible haste and it is the hope of those connected with the work to have the building finished and ready for occupancy by the first of January.

The successful bidder was J. F. Wineland, constructing engineer of Portland. He will be represented here by Mr. C. L. Ayerst, who is now on the ground and assembling workmen to start the work of excavating and other preliminaries.

The school board received a number of bids from prominent contracting firms in the Northwest, but the figures of Mr. Wineland proved the most attractive and he was awarded the contract. His figures as submitted to the board call for an expenditure of $33,384.00. This is considered a very good contract. Other bidders were much higher, some of them running over $40,000. The low figure does not mean that the work will be inferior to that calling for more money. The work and material will be of first class. The contractor's rating is of the best and his reputation as an engineer is such that other contractors do not hesitate in recommending him. They are unable to understand how he can do the work at such a low figure but say that if he undertakes the work it will be finished according to contract. This sounds good, and the board is to be commended for their action in securing a man of this kind to erect the building.

As many Heppner people already know, the new building is to be the same in appearance as the Newberg High School. The materials to be used are practically the same, concrete and brick. Newberg pressed brick for facings. The structure when completed will be very imposing and undoubtedly be the finest public building in the county.

School Notes.

By Supt. Notson.

On the 9th inst. I visited the school in District No. 7. Miss Florence Olmsted is in charge of this school. Since my former visit, a new map of the United States, a fine globe, a new dictionary, and some new blackboard have been added to the equipment. The pupils have been trying out some interesting experiments in agriculture. A horse put its nose through a broken window and devoured some of the specimens which were kept in the light near the window. However, this did not discourage the pupils. One of the pupils was writing for some bulletins which may be obtained from the Department of Agriculture. The pupils are very much interested in the work.

The next school in my line of march was the one in District No. 51, which is under the direction of Miss May Severance. The pupils have a nice collection of window plants, though some of the plants were not as nice as they might have been had not a wood-rat eaten off the tops a short time before. This school had an excellent new flag displayed on the flag-staff. Paint has been purchased with which to paint the interior of the school house, and it will not be many days until the work will be done. This will add much to the appearance of the room. Some of the smaller pupils are greatly interested in needle work. All the pupils are making good progress in their work.

In passing through Hardman, I noted that a new fence has been built around the school grounds. Also, that a new outbuilding had been erected on the boys' side of the premises. Three teachers have been employed for the ensuing year, and Hardman expects to have an excellent school.

Dr. Windard has taken a special course on eye diseases and is prepared to fit glasses properly.

FAIR TIME IS AT HAND.

Plans For School Fair Should Be Made Early. Get Exhibits Ready Now.

The time is approaching when arrangements must be made for the school fair which was planned last winter. The Commercial Club should begin to get together the funds for the premiums. Supt. Notson is considering plans for making the most of the fair and will soon be ready to announce the date. However, he will advise with the club before making any announcement. Owing to the fact that the district fair at Pendleton comes rather early it may be necessary to hold the school fair after the district fair. If so, pupils who desire to compete at the district fair, may do so, and then place their exhibits in the school fair afterward. In the rush of taking care of the big crop let us not lose sight of the school fair, and we should also keep in mind the district fair.

Wedding Bells Again.

A very quiet wedding was solemnized on Monday night of this week, the 19th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Aiken, of this city, when their eldest son, Cyrus W., was united in marriage to Miss Grace Correll Rodie. At eight o'clock they were joined in holy matrimony by the Rev. W. A. Pratt, pastor of the local Methodist church. The couple were attended by the groom's sister, Miss Ella, and by Mr. J. B. Sparks; Miss Helen Aiken presiding at the piano. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Aiken, the Misses Helen and Ella, Masters Henry, Jared, and Paul, and Messrs. Orve Rasmus, J. B. Sparks and Arthur McAtee. The happy couple left this morning for Portland where they will be at home to their many friends, and where Mr. Aiken has accepted a position with Oalef Brothers. The bride is recently of Pennsylvania, but now from Portland and the groom is well known in this place.

Postmaster Merrick Dead.

Postmaster Smead received a wire from his son, Maurice yesterday stating that C. B. Merrick, of Portland, was dead at Lakeview. Mr. Merrick was with the party of Portland business men who are making a tour of the development leagues in Central and Southern Oregon and died unexpectedly at Lakeview.

Climbed Mt. Adams.

Rev. John McAllister returned from his vacation trip to Glenwood, Wash., Saturday. On the 14th of August Mr. McAllister, in company with a party of seven other people ascended to the top of Mt. Adams. His account of it is given briefly as follows: A party consisting of E. A. Shannafelt, Rev. Owen Umsted, Miss Ruth Umsted, S. J. White and Miss Edna White, of North Yasima, Rev. John McAllister, of Heppner, and Mr. Hickey of Glenwood, rode ten miles to the snow line from Gochen creek and began to make the ascent to Mt. Adams. They were encountered by a snow storm, took shelter behind the large boulders and after the heavens were cleared they succeeded in getting to the top. Unfortunately the mountain was covered with a cap of fog, but the sight of the snow cones and crevasses were worth seeing. They came down in an hour, sliding on the snow all the way, and enjoyed themselves immensely. One of the party who went to the top was Mr. White who is 75 years of age. This breaks the record. Last year an aged man of 73 succeeded in getting to the top of the mountain.

"Were all medicines as meritorious as Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy the world would be much better off and the percentage of suffering greatly reduced," writes Lindsay Scott, of Temple, Ind. For sale by Patterson & Son.

Banker T. J. Mahoney and family have established camp at Herren's Mill. There are many patches of Huckleberries in that vicinity which have not been picked yet. The rains of last week halted the picking for a few days but it has not dampened the ardor of those in search of the luscious fruit.

Guy Huston was in the city from his Eight Mile farm, Monday. He is very busy harvesting his big wheat crop which is making an average of thirty bushels to the acre.
